Peter Krijnsen

Peter, a seasoned board member and mentor, focuses on developing sustainable business models and optimizing team effectiveness and investor readiness. Most recently he was CEO of UvA Ventures Holding, AMC Ventures Holding and HvA Ventures Holding.

Peter Krijnsen is the former CEO of the holdings of the University of Amsterdam, the Academic Medical Center and the Hogeschool van Amsterdam. He significantly increased the number of investments and successfully founded Startup Village, incubator ACE VentureLab and Innovation Fund Noord-Holland.

He is currently a member of the PhotonDelta Investment Committee, Vice Chairman of the Supervisory Board of Roessingh Center for Rehabilitation and a Mentor at Northwestern University.

Empathetic and sensitive to the environment, he embraces innovations, drives change, and gets things done. With keeping an eye for risks and good governance.

“I like to support Startup Village in further expanding and strengthening the network, and in encouraging the innovative entrepreneurs to developing sustainable business.”

Peter has a background in corporate venturing and has held senior management positions at listed multinationals such as Eaton Corporation and Unisys. He also holds an Executive MBA from Nyenrode/Northwestern University and a master's degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Twente The Netherlands.
